

Letter of Recommendation

This letter confirms that Artem Trifonov has finished an internship as a Product Manager in AVB PROD at AVB Invest Inc from 2025-07-22 to 2026-01-05 and demonstrated the following skills and competences:

The intern mastered core product management principles: market analysis, hypothesis formation, task prioritization, and working with metrics. Learned to create user stories, define key product metrics, collaborate with development and design teams.

During the internship worked on the following tasks:

Conducted competitive analysis, customer segmentation, and data collection/analysis using open-source tools.

Contributed to hypothesis generation based on research. Maintained and prioritized the product backlog (Jira-like system). Monitored sprint task completion. Collaborated on UX/UI mockups—providing requirements, feedback, and testing. Improved user experience through data-driven iterations.

The intern demonstrated high professional competence akin to experienced product managers. Excelled at idea validation, development, and release phases. Recommended for full-time Product Manager roles. Showed rapid grasp of technical product aspects and IT development specifics. Effectively collaborated with engineering teams. Recommended for tech-driven companies.

It is my great pleasure to recommend this Intern for employment as a Product Manager.

The intern proved to be a promising talent in product development. Recommended for Product Manager positions. Their analytical mindset, fast learning, and accountability will benefit any product team.

Sincerely,

Serge Garden
CEO of AVB invest Corp.
